The collected data will be processed by persons who have been expressly authorised, using adequate technical and organisational security measures. It will only be processed for the above purposes. Occasionally your data may be accessed by computer technicians and IT staff supervising the functioning of our IT system.

As the data subject you may, where applicable, request access to your personal data or obtain its rectification or erasure, or the limitation of processing, and you have the right to object to the data processing (Articles 15 et seq. of EU Regulation 2016/679 GDPR - a copy of the relevant articles and specific request may be requested from the contact address above).

If you consider that your data has not been processed in accordance with the data protection laws, you may submit a complaint to the regulatory authority as provided for in Article 77 GDPR. Alternatively you may take legal action.

If the data processing is based entirely or partially on your consent, you have the right to revoke it at any time, using the contact details given above. However, any past processing operations completed during the period for which consent is given, and the related legal effects, will remain valid even after consent is revoked.

The data controller may amend, update, add or remove parts of this data protection policy. The date on which this policy was updated has been given below, for ease of reference.

Please do not hesitate to contact us for more information.
